LCSWMA Hires Michael Lane as Chief Financial Officer

LANCASTER, Pa. – The Lancaster County Solid Waste Management Authority (LCSWMA) announces the hire of Michael Lane as Chief Financial Officer (CFO).

Lane's responsibilities include preserving and growing LCSWMA's assets by directing all financial and information technology activities of the organization. He oversees financial reporting, the fiscal planning and accounting cycles, treasury and risk management, in addition to directing LCSWMA's technology infrastructure and information systems. Lane also contributes to the development of organizational strategies by pursuing the highest value opportunities for LCSWMA's assets.

"LCSWMA is fortunate to have a team of talented and passionate individuals who place a high value on excellence," says Jim Warner, CEO for LCSWMA. "We are pleased to welcome Michael—an operationally focused leader with an entrepreneurial spirit that will complement our business model and add tremendous value for our customers, employees and community stakeholders."

Prior to joining LCSWMA, Lane was an auditor with Ernst & Young LLP's Harrisburg & Philadelphia practices. He also previously held progressive roles in the waste and consumer products industries, most recently serving as the Controller for KVK-Tech Inc., where he oversaw reporting, planning, administration and supply chain operations.

Lane joined the LCSWMA executive team in July 2016. He holds a B.S. in Accounting from Pennsylvania State University and several professional certifications including: Six Sigma, Procurement, Project Management and Microsoft ERP.

“I am thrilled by the opportunity to build upon LCSWMA’s history of creating value for its stakeholders. The drive to improve and the passion to find better solutions is a defining characteristic throughout this organization”, says Lane. “I’m excited about this opportunity to secure every financial advantage possible for LCSWMA, so the organization can realize its full customer and community service potential”.
